Dear Dr. Keskar,

It was a great pleasure interacting with you during our Zoom meeting and refine potential partnership opportunities with SMEF's Brick School of Architecture on various sustainability initiatives. Green Building Research Institute (GBRI) is pleased to provide SMEF's Brick School of Architecture with this proposal to provide the students and faculty with access to GBRI's International Sustainability Program (ISP). The revised scope of work is based on the discussions we had during our Zoom meeting on April 30th, 2021. As I understand, SMEF's Brick School of Architecture currently envisions utilizing GBRI Sustainability materials to train students as early as 2nd year of the B-Arch program and I believe GBRI's ISP will be the perfect complement to your curriculum to achieve this.

About GBRI

International Sustainability Program for Students and Faculty

In an effort to make sustainability education affordable and easily accessible to students, faculty and professionals, GBRI has created the International Sustainability Program (ISP). ISP is a powerful ongoing sustainability education program that aims to reconnect today's generation with our ancestral roots. We hope to implant the ideas we lost along the way while improving on them in a more localized, sustainable and enduring manner.

ISP has 3 main levels – Sustainability Champion, Sustainability Ambassador, and Sustainability Leader. Through collaboration with the universities and faculty, the program will introduce sustainability during formative years of a student in Architecture, Engineering or any discipline by providing access to Level 1; Sustainability Champion and level 2; Sustainability Ambassador. The depth and diversity of courses offered under this program will reinforce sustainability and green concepts therefore allowing the students to become industry ready and embrace sustainability as they grow into the next generation of professionals.

Access to Level 3; Sustainability Leader is currently limited to faculty members within a University.

Level 1 - International Sustainability Program - Certified Sustainability Champion

International Sustainability Program - Certified Sustainability Champion is a collection of sustainability courses and tools tailored to meet the knowledge level of a 2nd or 3rd year student. The courses in Level 1 would be in synchronization with their current syllabus so students may optimize their learning. In addition, the exam preparation materials under this level would assist the students to earn their USGBC LEED Green Associate credential and IGBC AP by the conclusion of Level 1.

A student should complete level 1 before enrolling for level 2. Students will continue to optimize their knowledge through our collaboration with your syllabus. Exam preparation materials under this level would assist the students to earn their WELL AP or LEED Accredited Professional credential by the conclusion of Level 2. Successful completion of this level will entail a student to earn GBRI Certified Sustainability Ambassador certificate. This level will make the students industry ready and prepare them for furthering their higher education (M. Arch or M.S) from a domestic or international university.
